at Crawfordsville High School

Crawfordsville High School represents a unique phase of life for 910 students. The primary objective of this life is education. But this is by no means the only activity of their lives. Along with their education, CHS students make friends, enjoy sports, and develop respect for leadership. This is our reason for saying, "There is a time for everything at Crawfordsville High School."

1967, like all other years, had a personality of its own. Students gave much time to academic achievement, and athletes strove long hours to improve the school records. Organizations provided opportunities for many to develop leadership qualities and others to learn the benefits of co-operative thinking. Within each portion of school life, the year found old friendships strengthening and new friendships kindling. The combination of these facets rounded out the school year for the Crawfordsville student. For seniors, the time for high school is now past, but the memories will remain.

Typical Days Are Composed of New Experiences

Mrs. Detwiler refuses Mr. Knecht's gallant offer to come to the head of the snack bar line in the cafeteria. Sally Cissel reminds her that there are to be two students between every two teachers.

Business students Judy Cosby and Margaret Detchon use the Voice-writer by which they type from recorded dictation.

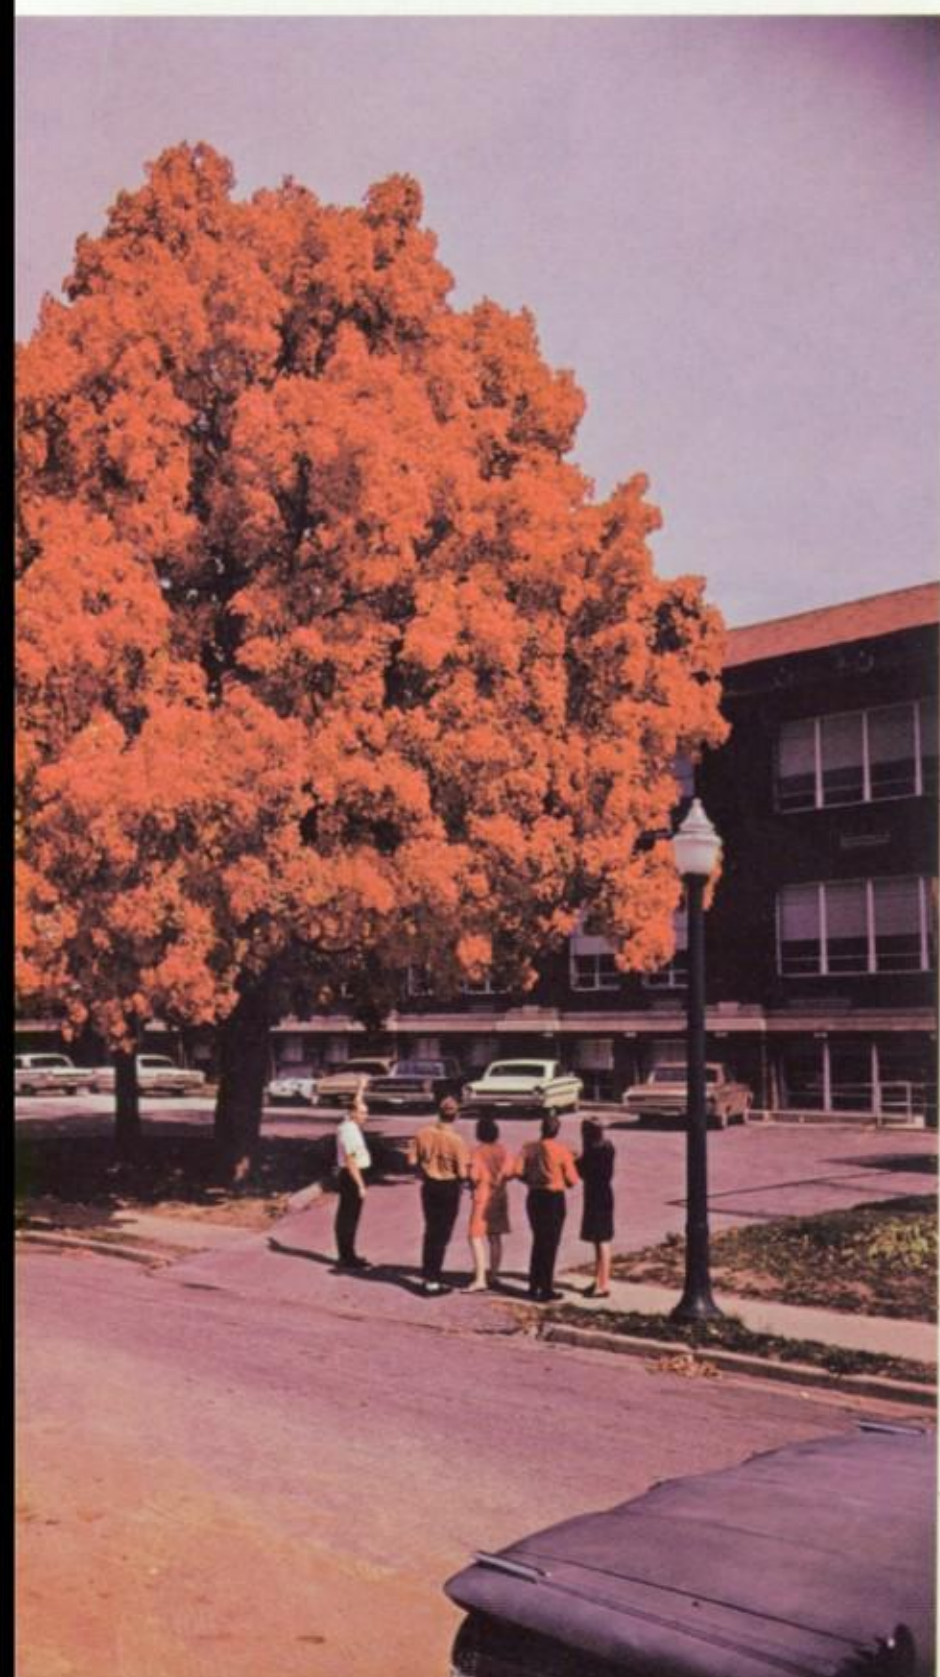

Norma Ballard and Steve Frees are convinced that the office is sometimes a very hectic place as they operate the switch-board.

At 8:30 A.M. on any school day, the ringing of bells signals the beginning of first period and we have taken the first steps in a new day. In September we are confused, but as the year progresses our activities become routine. We grow accustomed to the various changes in school policies; our schedules are no longer on pieces of paper but are firmly implanted in our minds; we learn what our new teachers expect from us. Many times during the year we are given the opportunity to attend convocations, a welcome break from the routine. Homeroom periods are also filled with various clubs and class meetings. As time goes by, even the daily rush to the cafeteria becomes easier. It is these typical days which form a large part of the school life of the CHS student.

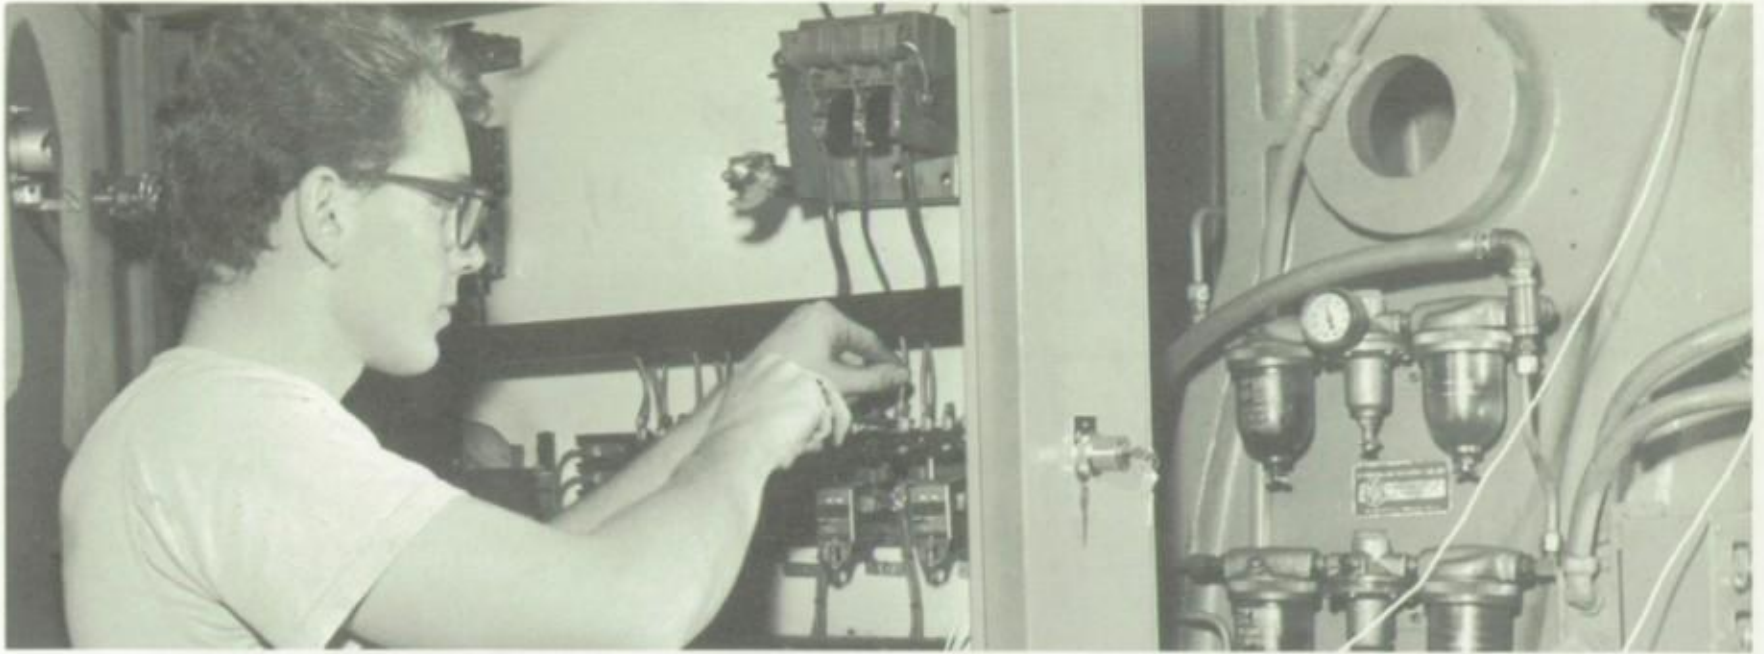

Is it a riot?!? No, just the normal scene in our halls after a convocation. The five-minute passing periods provide time to get to classes and walk with your boyfriend, too.

Mr. Richmond uses a living example to point out nature's preparations for winter to several of his students.

Youth Is the Time

Mike Armstrong completes his education at Steel Industries as a member of the D.C.E. program. The D.C.E. program offers on the job training for vocational students during high school.

Audio-visual plays an important part in many facets in the educational programs. Mr. Payne advises Jerry Layne and David Baker in the use of various equipment.

The cadet teaching program offers students experience needed for future teachers. Sheila Myers is welcomed to Willson School by Principal Coleman.

for Education

Participation in a classroom does provide a CHS student with one type of education. Yet there is more to our high school experience than $x+y=z$. Youth is the time for exploring the many facets of life which are open to us. Our minds have not yet been molded by prejudice or time. We are able to look at a situation objectively and realistically.

In high school the occasions to explore are opened. All we are asked to do is to use these chances to the best of our ability. We are offered leadership in clubs and classes. Service to our community in present and later years is given the opportunity to flourish. Even courtesy and manners can be acquired by contact with our many fellow students. As we mature, we also become acquainted with ourselves. Truly, youth is the time for learning.

Learning for the academic student consists of four years of English, social sciences, physical sciences and mathematics. Many students also prepare for vocational careers in business, woodworking, metal shop, mechanical drawing and printing. CHS'ers are able to follow their interests in art, music, physical education and sports, thus completing the varied opportunities available.

Summer work found Sherrie Hill and Marlene Petro repairing the bindings in textbooks. This is just one of the jobs performed by them in preparation for the new school year.

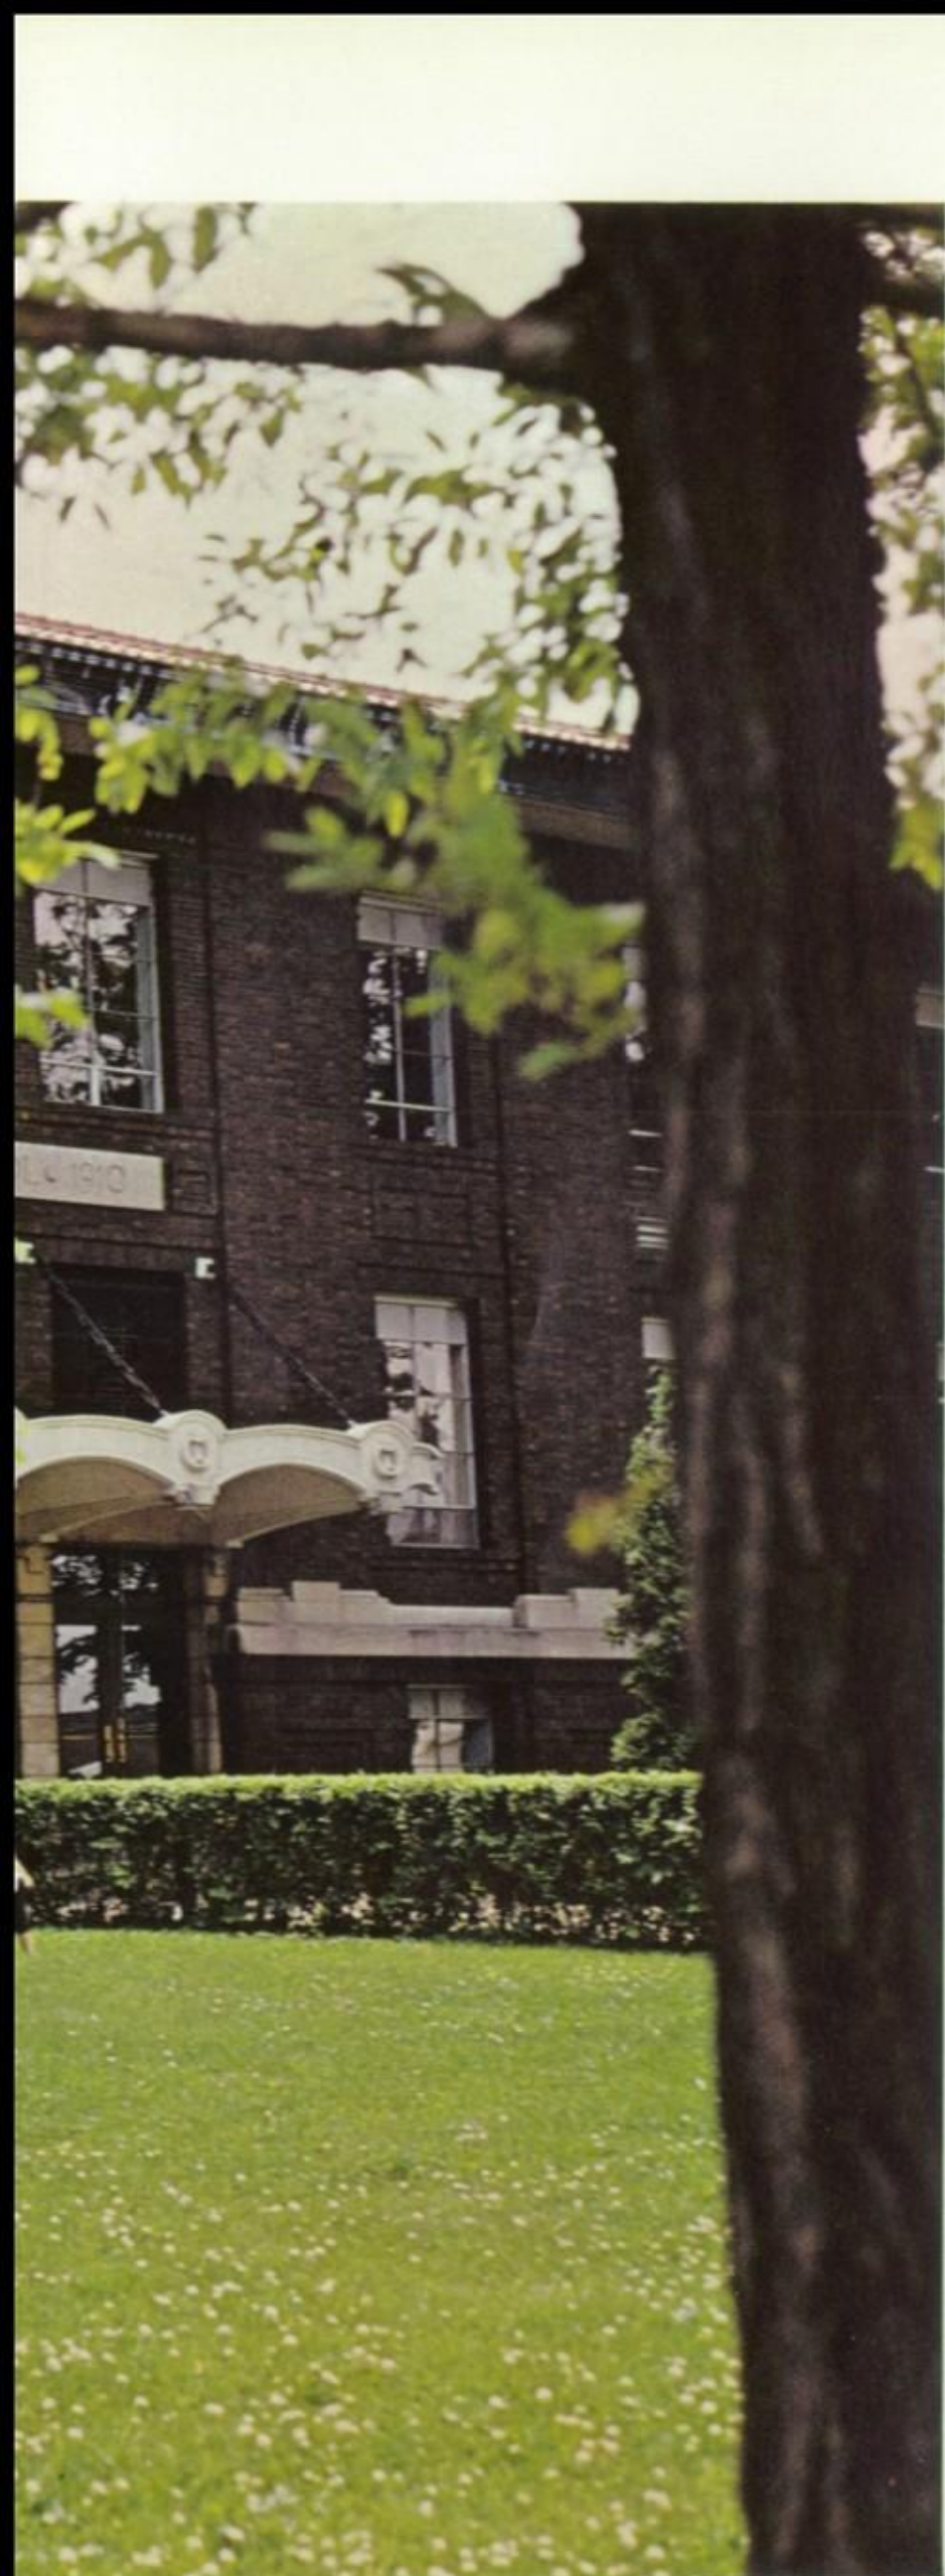

"Line up! Eyes left!" This is just the beginning for Mr. Calvin's P.E. class before an hour of calisthenics.

Enter To Learn— Go Forth To Serve

Each day we see these words written on a plaque in our front corridor. Yet how many of us have taken the time to consider what these words mean to us as students and to us as future citizens. Students of Crawfordville High School are presented with the difficult challenge of making a success of their lives. Meeting this challenge requires time and often becomes a trying battle. But by taking advantage of the facilities and services which the school renders an individual can become a well-rounded individual and be of great service to the community. The necessities for developing a full and active life can be found here in C.H.S. The answer to the challenge rests with the student.

Jorge Charad Brings Chilean Culture to C.H.S.

For the past three years Crawfordville High School has been fortunate enough to host foreign exchange students through the American Field Service. Our student this year came to us from Santiago, Chile, and his name was Jorge Charad, or better known as George. George was warmly received in his "adopted" home, the Robert Neuhauses of 7 Locust Hill Drive. In the picture above we see George with his "mother," Mrs. Neuhaus, and Scott. George's real family consists of three brothers, a sister, and his mother and father, who are both dentists.

George was especially interested in chemistry and plans to continue his studies at the Chilean University. He stated that one major difference between CHS and Chilean schools is the lack of closeness between teachers and pupils.

Yes, we were glad to have this lively addition to our school. His broad, flashing grin and outgoing, friendly manner made him popular at CHS and we shall truly miss our friend from "South of the Border" when he returns to Chile.

National Honor Society's secretary, Pam Baker, guides "George" on a tour of CHS.

Summer Institutes Develop Leadership Abilities

John Tolley, Pam Baker, Sam Kirtley, and Jane West participated in I.U. workshops. Pam, Sam and John attended Journalism Institutes while Jane went to Leadership classes.

Crawfordsville High School again this year sent several students to summer institutes throughout the state. Four students attended sessions at Indiana University. Pam Baker went to classes in the newspaper division of the Journalism Institute while Sam Kirtley and John Tolley learned the fundamentals of yearbook organization in the yearbook division. Jane West, who also was at I.U., took part in the leadership workshop. Her experiences helped her in conducting student council. Two students participated in music workshops. Anne West traveled to Indiana State University where she participated in concert band rehearsals and elementary music theory. Crawfordsville's new band major did not start the year without training. Bill Tucker attended Smith-Walbridge drum major camp at Syracuse, Indiana. Here he learned the skills and developed the enthusiasm required for a successful drum major.

Music was the main interest of Anne West and Bill Tucker last summer as they discuss their experiences.

Civic-Minded Students

Crawfordsville High School students often find themselves with time on their hands. Consequently they look for something to do and find the answer in our own community. Consider the Youth Council. This organization was rejuvenated two years ago after an inactive period. The Council has done much to raise teenage status in our area. Their Y.E.S., Youth Employment Service, has aided many students in earning that extra bit of spending money.

Approximately twenty-five churches within the city give students the opportunity to join the various youth fellowships.

Junior Achievement is a growing organization in our community. Teens develop their own companies and these are operated much like big businesses. The students go out and sell their products, manage the money, and perform all other business functions. This prepares teenagers for the future business world.

The Bluettes are a service group which help those in nursing homes. They visit with the patients and help to make their stay easier.

Demolay and Rainbow, Masonic orders for boys and girls, respectively, are often active in community affairs. For example, Rainbow girls have canvassed each year in the city-wide cancer drive.

Many teens work for our community and show a desire for responsibility and usefulness as future citizens!

Past president Jane West and president Cindy Simpson discuss Youth Council's constitution and goals with Mayor Hays.

The council is a teenage community service organization.

Lend a Helping Hand to Their Community

Rick Sowers gets a chance to meet the public as he makes a sale to Jerry Walters in the Squire Shop.

Wabash College Scarlet Masque Theatre adds culture to the community. Patti Ebenholtz and Mrs. Cunningham lend a helping hand to productions.

A Time for

Academics

Languages Connect Crawfordsville High School

Throughout the year many English teachers assign term papers. Therefore, the library is a very busy place for students like Margaret Surber, Libby Pinkston, and Teresa Murdock.

The English department of Crawfordsville High School offered its students a variety of interesting courses. All seniors on the academic curriculum were required to take Senior or Honors English. European literature was studied in both classes, the difference being in the intensity of study. Index, academic and TV English were offered to the juniors. All sophomores were required to take a semester of speech under Mr. Nelson and a semester of world literature and grammar. In addition to the required courses, a junior or senior could have elected advanced speech or journalism.

New faculty members included: Mr. Pritchard, who taught index English and journalism, received his B.S. and M.S. degree from Ball State and taught sophomore literature. Mrs. Pamela Cunningham taught senior and honors English and received her B.S. degree from St. Olaf College. Mrs. Lady Ann Loudonback instructed junior academic classes with a B.S. from Purdue. Mrs. Carol Campbell received her B.S. from I.U. and taught sophomore English and library.

Len Sterrett and Rick Linn display Julius Caesar projects in sophomore English classes for Miss Arthur.

With Our Nation and Those Around the World

Three foreign languages were offered at Crawfordsville High School this year. Not only did the student learn the basic fundamentals, such as grammar and vocabulary, but the language lab aided him in speaking the language fluently. As background material, the people and customs of these lands were also provided as a study area.

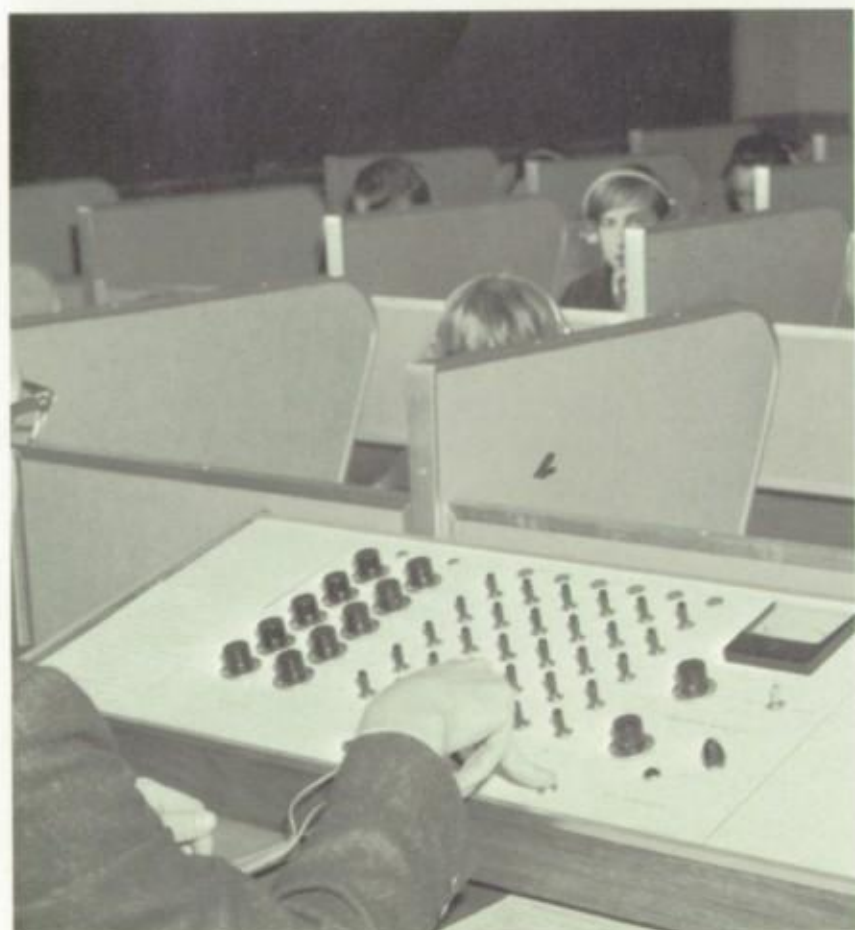

After a year's absence, while she taught in Mishawaka, Mrs. Mary Jane Kass returned to the CHS language department. Many seniors remembered Mrs. Kass as the French teacher when they were sophomores. However, she was teaching Spanish this year, where three years were available.

"Parlez-vous francais?" was heard in room 111 where French was taught by Miss Marilyn Armstrong. Slides, songs, booklets, and "bingo" proved to be interesting methods of learning.

Many students wished to learn the origin of our English language. They stopped in room 115 where Mr. Steven Kain instructed his Latin classes in four years, ranging from simple vocabulary to the translation of Vergil.

A slide of a Spanish bullfight brings a smile to Mrs. Kass face, as Jim Goodwin looks on.

Mr. Kain listens to his students conjugate verbs in our modern language laboratory.

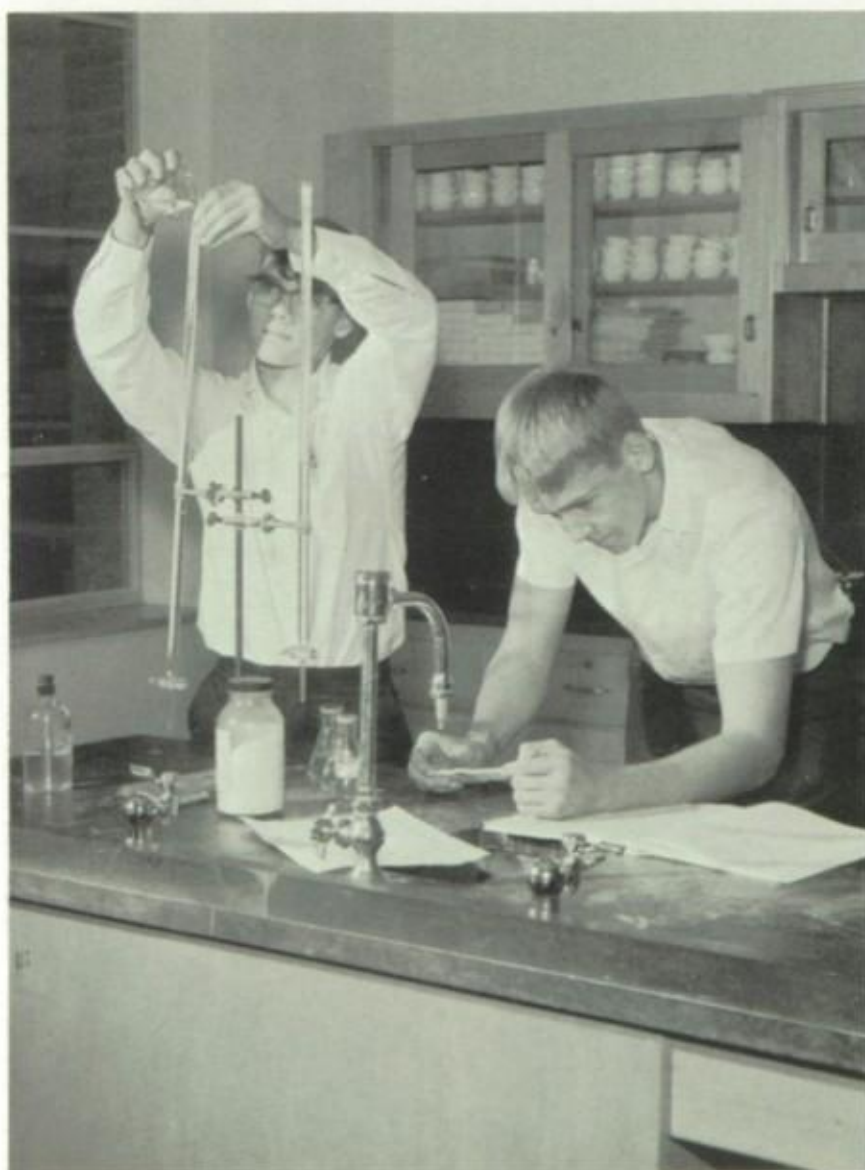

Bonnie Quinn uses a relief map of France to illustrate her "discourse" in French class.

No, it's not an optical illusion! It's just Jim Clements demonstrating the laws of air and motion to Dan Sommers, Cendy Simpson, and John Mitchell.

Scientists Explore the World Around Us

"Syringe, scalpel, forceps . . ." Cindy Cooper performs a major operation by dissecting her frog in Biology.

"Ten more milligrams of sodium chloride" . . . "E=MC² is a very important formula" . . . "The photosynthesis of any" . . . If you were one of many CHS students who participated in the science courses this year, these words should not be unfamiliar. Open to the scientific and exploring mind were various courses to stimulate interest in the world in which we live.

Mr. Richmond and Mr. Haslam taught the biology classes, which are divided into a semester of non-vertebrates and a semester of vertebrates.

Chemistry was under the direction of Mr. Seale, who came to us from the science department at Wheaton College in Illinois.

Instruction in physics, the study of math and energy, was provided by Mr. Smith. An advanced course, science problems, combined scientific questions with mathematical answers and was taught by Mr. Dawson.

Math Trains Students for Today's Society

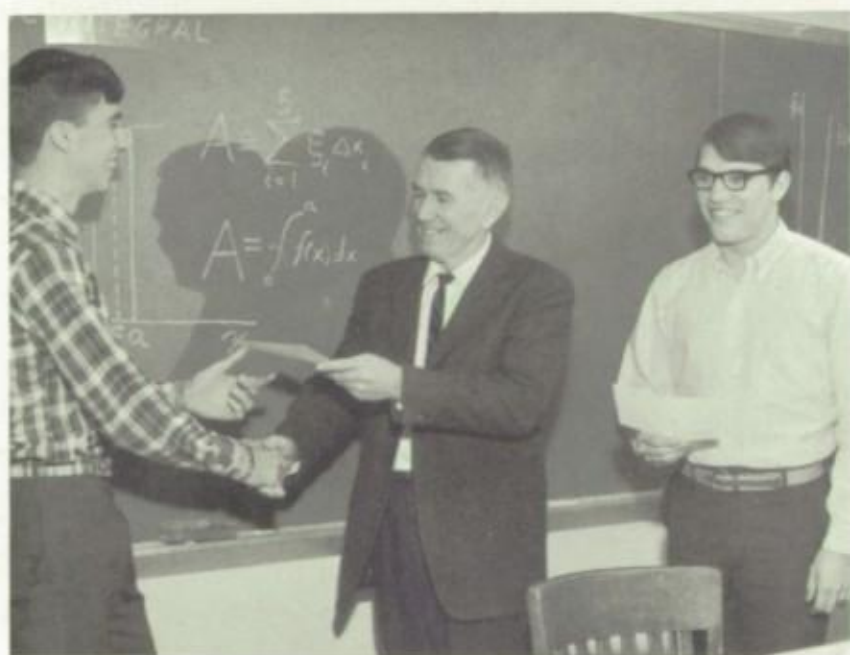

"Euclid is the father of geometry" . . . "Now what is the square root" . . . "Tan, sine, and cosine are . . ." These are just a few phrases one can hear as he strolls past the math rooms in CHS. The field of mathematics is wide open to the student who wishes to broaden his scope of knowledge.

As head of the department, Mr. Dawson instructed the more ambitious math student in senior math, a course combining advanced algebra, calculus, and trigonometry. There was also a semester course in probability and statistics under his supervision.

Business math was taught by Mr. Hamilton, where the student learned the basic arithmetical skills needed in the business world. Mr. Waller and Mr. Kuonen taught the basic fundamentals upon which later math is based in first and second year algebra and plane and coordinate geometry.

Mr. Dawson explains a line graduation to his calculus class.

Superior ability in math is recognized as Bill Burkett and Scott Neuhaus receive awards as finalists in state contests.

Becky Hampton tackles a geometric problem, but the black-board compass proves too much for her.

Mr. Saucerman points out Pike's Peak on the relief map to students in his geography class.

Social Studies Travel From Ancient History to Current Events in the "Great Society."

Sociology classes are often supplemented by discussions. Here Father Hofheinz talks of marital relationships to Jody Simms.

Government classes gain first hand information by learning how to operate voting machines. Mr. Bell demonstrates a scratch to Gerald Hutson while Chris Langsford and Terri Hiatt observe.

The CHS social science department was designed to interest the student in his world, past, present, and future. World history, a course covering important historical events and cultural achievements of the past major civilizations, was taught by Mr. Avery. Juniors were required to take U.S. history from Mr. Saucerman, Mr. Burgess, who also taught sociology, and Miss West teaching, in addition, psychology.

Seniors studied our own society's operations through U.S. government and economics classes under Mr. Gentry and Mr. Lebedeff respectively. Many used this knowledge to participate in the Purdue Legislative Assembly or the model U.N. Assembly at Anderson College.

Mary Jane Kostanzer pauses to clean her typewriter for more legible copy.

"Dear Sirs . . ." begins Miss Jean in her daily dictation to her shorthand class.

"Efficiency First" Is Businessman's Motto

Reaching for the last piece of candy are CHS's business teachers, Mr. Hamilton, Mrs. Servies, Mrs. Irons, Miss Jean, and Mr. McKee.

Many opportunities are offered to the business-minded student at Crawfordsville High School. In numerous courses the student is introduced to those basic fundamentals which will aid him in the business world.

Many college-bound students took advantage of the one semester course in personal typing taught by Mrs. Runge who also taught business English and regular typing. Here they could develop proficiency for doing term papers or just completing other material. The use of voicewriters gave the advanced typing classes under Mrs. Servies and Mr. Hamilton the chance to gain new skills and accuracy. They also learned to use different kinds of adding machines and duplicating machines.

In room 218 a student could find Mr. McKee instructing classes in business law, bookkeeping, and consumer economics, a course to introduce business finance to students. Beginning shorthand was taught by Mrs. Irons and Miss Jean. Business math and sales were under the direction of Mr. Hamilton and Mr. McKee.

Two student teachers present in the department were Miss Pat Perkins and Mr. Robert Inskeep from Ball State and Indiana State respectively.

Sonna Bonebrake and Kathy Sarver instruct Anne Caress in Home Ec.'s child development training.

Kathy Haderle, Janie Sutherlin, and Lynda Fowler prepare clothes they made for the Home Ec. style show.

Homemaking Trains Domestic-minded Girls

The Homemaking Department of Crawfordsville High School offered a wide variety of skills needed for careers geared toward the home. The girls in Home Ec had a wide range of interests. The majority of this department's majors were preparing for a career centered in the home to better provide for a future family. Others, though, were looking for professions as dietitians, child counselors, first aid administrators, and Home Economics instructors.

Mrs. Dorothy Jones headed the Homemaking Department in the city schools. She enthusiastically instructed classes in meal planning, sewing, household arrangement and personal hygiene. Audio-visuals played a large part in the curriculum as the girls learned from experimentation and testing of their final projects.

Mrs. Jones approves of Virginia Powers and Margaret Detchon's plans for a future party in the department.

Industrial Arts Students Display Their Skill

Developing interests and skills are the areas covered by CHS's Industrial Arts program. A boy can come out of these classes with a true sense of accomplishment as he sees his own handiwork.

Mr. Achor and Mr. Brown taught woodshop, where one could learn the do-it-yourself method. Drafting, a course to aid future engineers and architects, was also taught by Mr. Achor. Mr. Brown was in charge of printing classes which print our own school newspaper. New in the department this year was Mr. Charles Ryker who obtained his B.S. from I.S.U. He taught woodshop.

Mr. Wininger, head of the department, was in charge of the machine shops and supervised the DCE or diversified cooperation education. This program allowed its participants to attend school for half of the day, then learn on-the-job training as apprentices in the afternoon at various factories and offices in the Crawfordsville area.

The Arts and P.E. Complete

"A little less forte, Susan." Mr. Wagner corrects Sue Caster, as accompanists Susan Scott and Candy Cornell practice for a program.

Chuck Ginger is still trying to reach C above high C as he practices for a forthcoming contest.

"Variety" was the key word in art classes this year as students were allowed much free time to produce their own creations.

a Polished Schedule for the CHS'er.

CHS has been blessed with many talented students over the years. Not only has their talent appeared on the Athenian stage, but in the choral and band sections of our music department.

In addition, we have a large and active art department, which was headed by Mr. Kauffman, a newcomer to CHS from Indiana State University. Art to his students was not just painting as we often think of it. To them art included charcoal drawings, wood cuts, and even sculpturing as individual projects. As in the past, the annual all-school art contest was held in the spring with prizes in differing fields. It was sponsored by the Women's Art League of Crawfordsville.

Physical education was another important area in the CHS student's curriculum. Miss Davidson, Mr. Calvin, and Mr. Haslam were the instructors of the PE and health and safety classes given on alternate days throughout the year. In PE, the students participated in rigorous calisthenics and sports which were geared to the seasons. Health and safety class gave a course in first aid and preparation for driver's education in texts.

"The scapula's connected to the sternum, the sternum's connected . . ." Here Greg Young points out bone structures in health and safety class.

"Coming up in the world" is John Corwin who demonstrates one area covered by CHS's PE courses.

A Time for

Personalities

Would you believe—it's really 1967 and we've finally reached that top rung on the ladder—we're SENIORS. As we look back over the years, we can recall our very beginning as a class in 1961 at Tuttle Junior High, where we were the first class to attend all three years in that beautiful building.

Crawfordsville High School represented our last step in secondary schooling. We seniors have many experiences to look back on. There were pep sessions, ballgames, class rings, plays, and dances, Christmas Balls and Proms. Our record of two firsts and a second in float contests was enviable. CHS held time for fun. But since there were tests, homework, recitations, term papers, and labs, CHS also provided a time for work.

As the class of 1967 graduates and goes out into life to marriages, to employment, to further schooling—we can look back to CHS as a major factor in the shaping of our lives.

Being a junior is associated with being able to look down on the sophomores and in turn having to look up to the seniors. The junior is the middle-man at CHS, but being in the middle doesn't give him a chance to rest. Being a junior is being active.

The 296 members of the junior class had a busy year. President Sarah Blind and her officers Cendy Simpson, vice president; Linda Hays, secretary; and Bob Smith, treasurer, worked under class advisor, Mr. Dawson, to build up the treasury for future plans. To accomplish this they took charge of concessions at home football and basketball games and sold class rings. They also produced a beautiful prom for the graduating seniors. The class presented three one act plays—"Sunday Costs Five Pesos," "The Long Christmas Dinner," and "The Hitchhiker."

The Sophomores Comprise the Largest Class

Sophomore class officers, Jeff Dawson, Toni Mattioda, Buffy Burnett, and Laurie Eggers prepare their bulletin board in the student lounge for Open House.

Three hundred twenty-two students found CHS to be a new and complicated experience. These were CHS's new sophomores, and they were the first to admit the differences between CHS and Tuttle Junior High were many—ranging from the difference in homeroom periods to the arrangement of classes. But these sophomores met the challenge well and picked able leaders to see them through an important year. Laurie Eggers served as president, while other officers were Buffy Burnett, vice president; Toni Mattioda, secretary; and Jeff Dawson, treasurer. The sophomore class advisor was Mr. Kuonen. As the largest class at CHS, the sophomores worked together admirably for the float contest at Homecoming and a mixer.

Four sophomores on Cloud Nine were the B-team cheerleaders—Laurie Eggers, Tricia Wagonman, Carol Norvell, and Sara Edwards—all were on the ball, typical of the Class of '69.

Being a teacher at Crawfordsville High School is more than just giving tests and grading homework. It is the giving of one's self to helping students learn and achieve. It takes many years of schooling just to become a teacher and constant learning to keep abreast of the times and new teaching methods.

Teachers at CHS are certainly no exception. Over a third of them have earned their masters' degrees and many more are working toward this goal. In addition, our teachers spend many hours of preparation for classroom time.

But the faculty at CHS isn't just a group of bookworms and drillmasters. Many devote their time to sponsoring clubs, coaching athletic teams, and directing plays. And who can forget our eight faculty "cheerleaders" at the pep session? They were certainly as enthusiastic as any student.

Yes, a student at CHS is not dealing with just a teacher. The faculty at CHS truly have the attitude—"I am glad to learn, in order that I may teach."—Seneca (4B.C.-65A.D.)

After tardy arrival of the new library furniture, many faculty members like Miss Knight and Mr. Payne worked long hours getting the library ready for use.

Miss Arthur, a veteran of CHS, shows new faculty member, Mr. Pritchard, the English Ed. office.

Office Serves as Hub of CHS Activities

Mr. Ward Brown, principal, and Miss Dorothea Knight, secretary, go over the courses available this year.

The Crawfordsville High School administration was the hub of all school activities this year. Telephone lines to the office were seldom not in use as secretaries Miss Knight and Mrs. Scott kept the school in contact with the outside world. They also served the faculty and staff by mimeographing test sheets, typing correspondence and co-ordinating all school business.

The responsibility of all school functions rested on the shoulders of Principal Ward Brown who has served Crawfordsville High School for eight years.

Assistant Principal Robert Barton entered his second year in this capacity. He also sponsored Student Council and acted as the link between the student body and high school faculty.

Mrs. Letha Scott, CHS's other "righthand man," prepares to take a note as Mr. Robert Barton, assistant principal, dictates.

The school board was comprised of Donald R. Morris, Gus Gineris, Eugene Troster, R. Max Boots, and Dr. Richard Eggers, who unselfishly gave of their time to direct school policy.

School Board Regulates Educational Policy

The Board of School Trustees of the Crawfordsville Metropolitan School District was composed of five members, elected at large in the primary by the voters of the school district. The term of appointment was for four years, appointments made every two years to provide for overlapping membership. Initially, the three members receiving the largest number of votes will serve for four years and the remaining members will serve for two years.

The board is reorganized within three days after July 1 of each year by the election of officers. The officers for the school year 1966-1967 were Eugene Troster, president; Gus Gineris, vice president; Richard Eggers, secretary; R. Max Boots, treasurer; and Donald R. Morris, trustee. The duties and responsibilities of this Board were those delegated by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana and were specified in The Administrative Handbook for Indiana Schools. Some of these duties were to employ personnel, erect buildings and levy taxes.

The express purpose of our school board was to conduct an educational program for all children within the Crawfordsville School Corporation boundaries.

The superintendent, Merrill Dailey, was the executive officer of the board and was responsible to the board for the administration of all education and business affairs.

Superintendent Merrill Dailey served as the advisor to the school board and administered its programs.

School Personnel Assure Efficient Operation

Mrs. Gladys Brown, who runs the bookstore and keeps an eye on the school treasury, checks out her order blanks for Walden.

School custodians Neal Beck, Rosemary Wright, Raymond Cline, Lowell Wright, and Julian Baldwin are kept busy cleaning our school.

Organized in 1900 by Miss Anna Willson, who was principal of CHS, our chapter of the Sunshine Society was the school's largest organization. The chief purpose of SSS is explained in the creed: "With love in my heart, forgetting self, and with charity for all, I will make the object of my life helpfulness and kindness to others. I shall try to fit myself to give intelligent service in making my community a safer and more beautiful place in which to live. Thus will my own life become rich and complete."

The girls lived this creed in several ways. They held a candy sale in which the proceeds went to the Riley Children's Hospital in Indianapolis. They also visited shut-ins and distributed food certificates to needy people during the Christmas season. Their big social function was the Christmas Ball. The Ideal Ladies' Tea completed the year with each girl honoring a woman whose ideals she held as high and sincere.

Athenian Booster Clubs Serve CHS

Looking over the agenda for an upcoming meeting are Wayne Steele, treasurer; Joe Pierce, vice president; Chuck Miller, secretary; and President Randy Frederick of ABC I.

ABC, also known as Athenian Booster Club, was divided into two organizations. ABC I was made up of junior and senior boys, while ABC II consisted of sophomore boys. Although divided, the club stood together to accomplish the boosting of school spirit at all sports.

ABC I was sponsored by Mr. Gentry. Some of its projects in 1967 were a car wash, helping Sunshine Society to decorate for the Christmas Ball, and taking charge of All-school Clean-up Week. It also gave a scholarship to the outstanding member of the club.

ABC II had Mr. Richmond as its sponsor. It served as a stepping stone to ABC I, but the boys had their own projects. For instance, they ran the coat check at basketball games and sponsored a convocation.

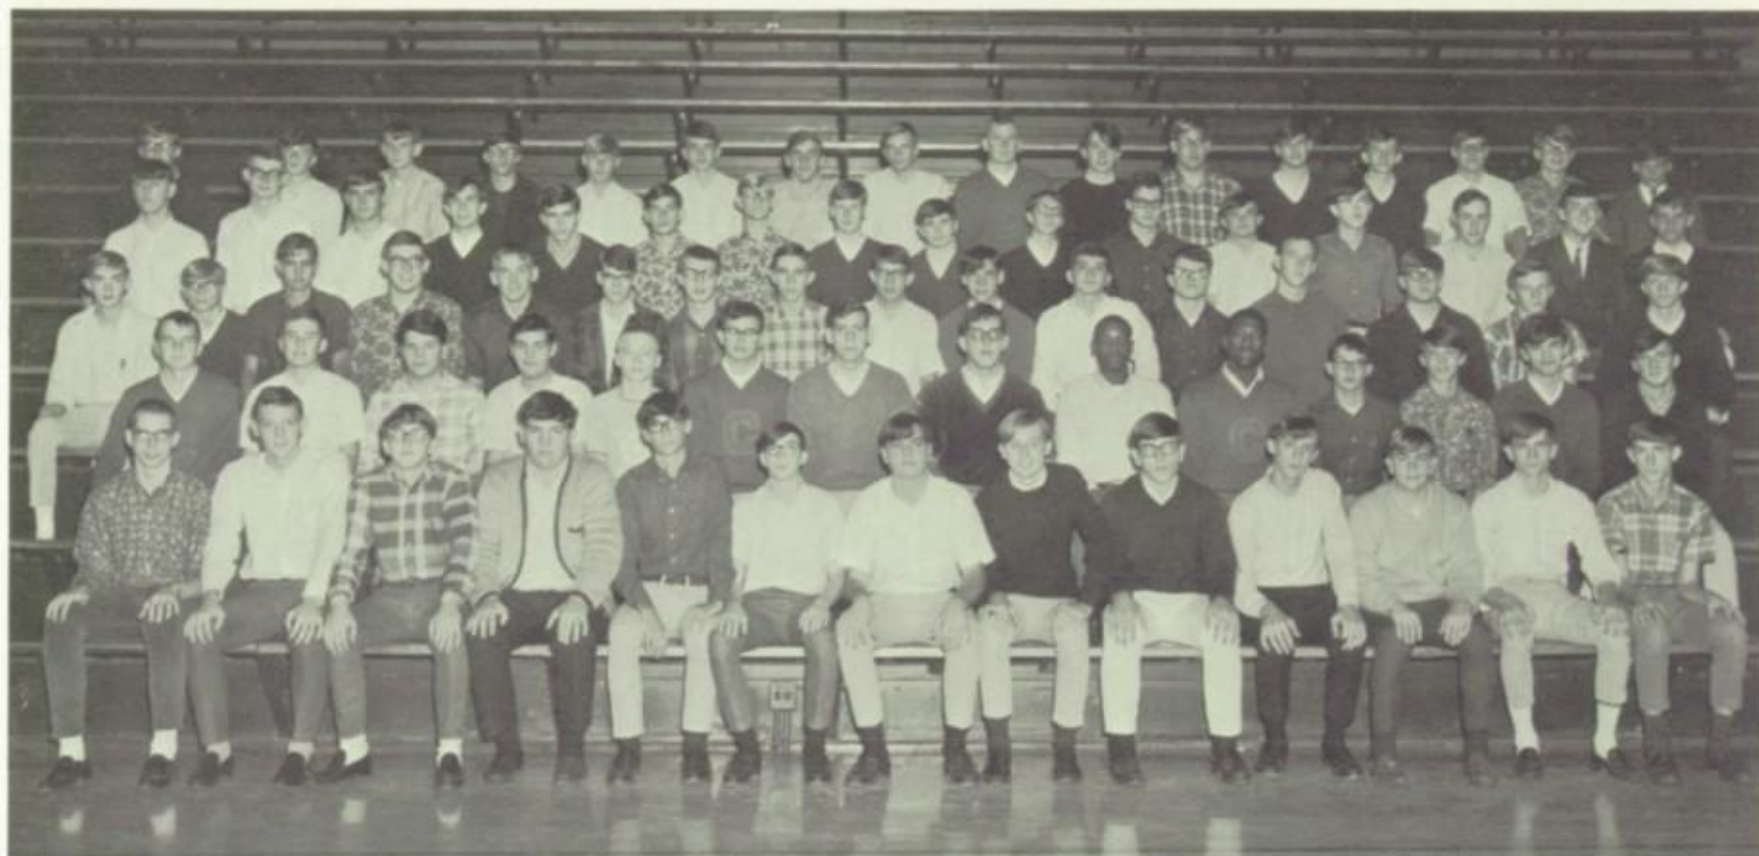

To insure full membership participation the clubs were based on a point system, each boy having to earn four points a semester to remain a member. The points were earned by serving on committees or regular attendance at school sports.

Pep Block Emphasizes a Time for Spirit

"Let's begin by giving a cheer!" Two hundred feminine voices screaming at the top of their lungs could only be CHS's pep block. Throughout the basketball season these girls devoted time, energy, and lung-power to stir up school spirit and provide the team with loyal fans.

This year pep block was led by president Joyce Fine, while Mr. Hamilton, Miss Davidson, and Mrs. Irons acted as sponsors. Joyce's officers this year included first vice president Sarah Blind, second vice president Jean Rusk, secretary Cheryl Poore, and treasurer Dale Deckard.

Joyce and her officers had a tremendous job on their hands with organizing the girls into formations and checking attendance. To assist them representatives were chosen from each class to help keep the girls in formation. Representatives from the senior class were Charlotte Froedge and Cathie Crecelius; from the junior class, Sally Cissel and Vickie Gibbs; and from the sophomore class, Stephanie Hartman and Tricia Wagaman.

Pupils Voice Opinions Through Student Council

As the student governing body of CHS, Student Council was considered one of our most important organizations. Members were elected representatives and alternates from each home room, all club and class presidents, and publications editors. Thus, there was a cross-section of all students, allowing for the expression of all views. This year's Council was under the able leadership of President Jane West. Other officers were vice president, Ben Rogge; secretary, Lynn Mercer; treasurer, Anne West; parliamentarian, John Tolley; and reporter, Becky Leaverton.

To raise funds, the council sponsored a mixer in October. It also received money from the juke box and coke machines in the Student Lounge. In return, the Council purchased up-to-date records and students monitored the lounge during the lunch shifts. Student Council members also served as guides at the CHS Open House. In addition, the club closed out the year with a picnic for all members.

Adding up-to-date records to our juke box are Student Council officers Lynn Mercer, secretary; Jane West, president; and Anne West, treasurer.

N.H.S. Fosters Foreign Exchange Program

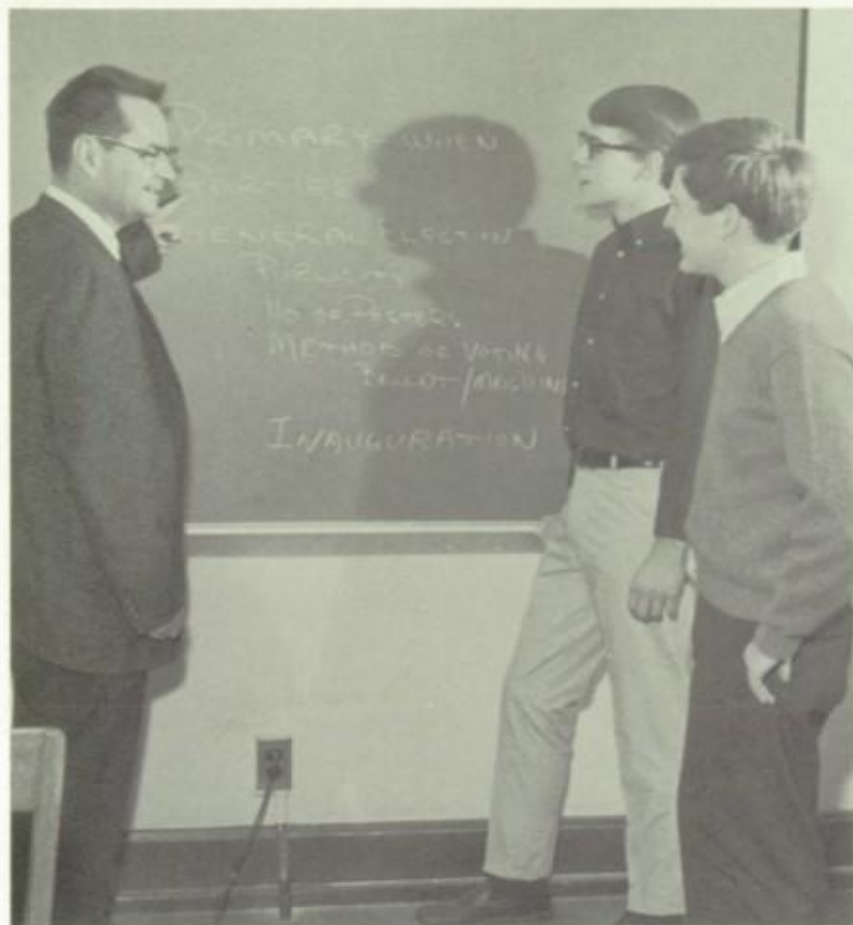

The symbol of the flaming torch represents an organization of which the members were very proud to be a part. National Honor Society each year inducts five per cent of the junior class and fifteen per cent of the senior class. To be considered as a candidate one must have maintained a B average for at least three consecutive semesters. Scholarship is important, but equally essential are the qualities of service, character, and leadership as a pre-requisite for election to this organization.

One of the club's major functions was to sponsor the foreign exchange student. In order to do this they planned a successful A.F.S. bazaar in the spring with the purpose of raising money for next year's student. In addition, they urged all clubs to donate a small portion so that the dream of an exchange student can continue to be a reality. As in past years, Honor Society members gave of their time and experience helping other students through their free tutoring service.

"Why don't you make up your minds!" Secretary-treasurer Pam Baker directs Vice-president Sam Kirtley in preparation for initiation, as President John Mitchell disagrees.

Indiana University Hosts Girl and Boy Staters

Two Boys' Staters, Greg Bartels and Sam Kirtley, go over initial procedures with Mr. Lebedeff in anticipation of senior elections.

From many qualified candidates, several students were chosen to represent our school at Hoosier Boys' State and Hoosier Girls' State last summer. Each junior boy or girl was selected by the faculty on such qualities as scholarship, leadership, and attitude.

These Staters were in constant motion from the time they arrived at Indiana University for their respective institutes. For one week they became an integral part of a working government and learned how our party system was organized. All CHSers held offices or helped other candidates in their campaigns to receive nomination. With all this knowledge at hand, the Staters returned in the fall as members of the election committee. It was their duty to organize and insure a successful senior election.

All agreed it was a truly worthwhile experience as they met new people, made lasting friendships, and learned how one can become active in his government.

Co-editors John Tolley and Sam Kirtley look over final theme copy with sponsor, Mrs. Servies.

Much extra time and hard work were put in by the staff of this year's Athenian under the guidance of their sponsor, Mrs. Servies. I.U. yearbook workshop and junior assistant positions last year provided a sound background for our co-editors, John Tolley and Sam Kirtley. Many hours were spent behind the closed doors of 223 as they worked to plan the 1967 Athenian with layout editor, Bill Burkett. "Tears and toil" aptly described the job of copy editor, filled by Charlotte Froedge. Greg Bartels acted as sports editor, while our art editor, Lynn Mercer designed the cover and division pages of the book. Sales manager, Sandy Sikes, added many gray hairs to her head, while Lawrence Record shared the responsibility as business manager. Our two typists, Kay Stewart and Marlene Petro developed permanent "typist's cramp," while all the dirty work was heaped on junior assistants, Linda Grimes and Janie Brenneman.

Gold and Blue Flashes News "Hot Off the Press"

One girl with a big job on her hands this year was Pam Baker, editor-in-chief of the Gold and Blue. To present our school life and activities in the form of a newspaper was Pam's main goal. She was aided by a competent staff. In charge of getting the articles and organizing them was Trish Vance, news editor. Circulation manager, Jan Sperry, rounded up a crew to distribute the papers during seventh period on Fridays. Cendy Simpson had the task of keeping the books balanced in her role as business editor. The sports page was under the ever-watchful eye of Scott Neuhaus, sports editor. A lively group of "nose-for-news" reporters rounded out the staff.

CHS students received the Gold and Blue every two weeks. A contingency fee paid by each student at the beginning of the year financed the paper's expenses. Sound Off, an opinion poll, was one of the regular and popular features. New this year were cartoons drawn by our own students.

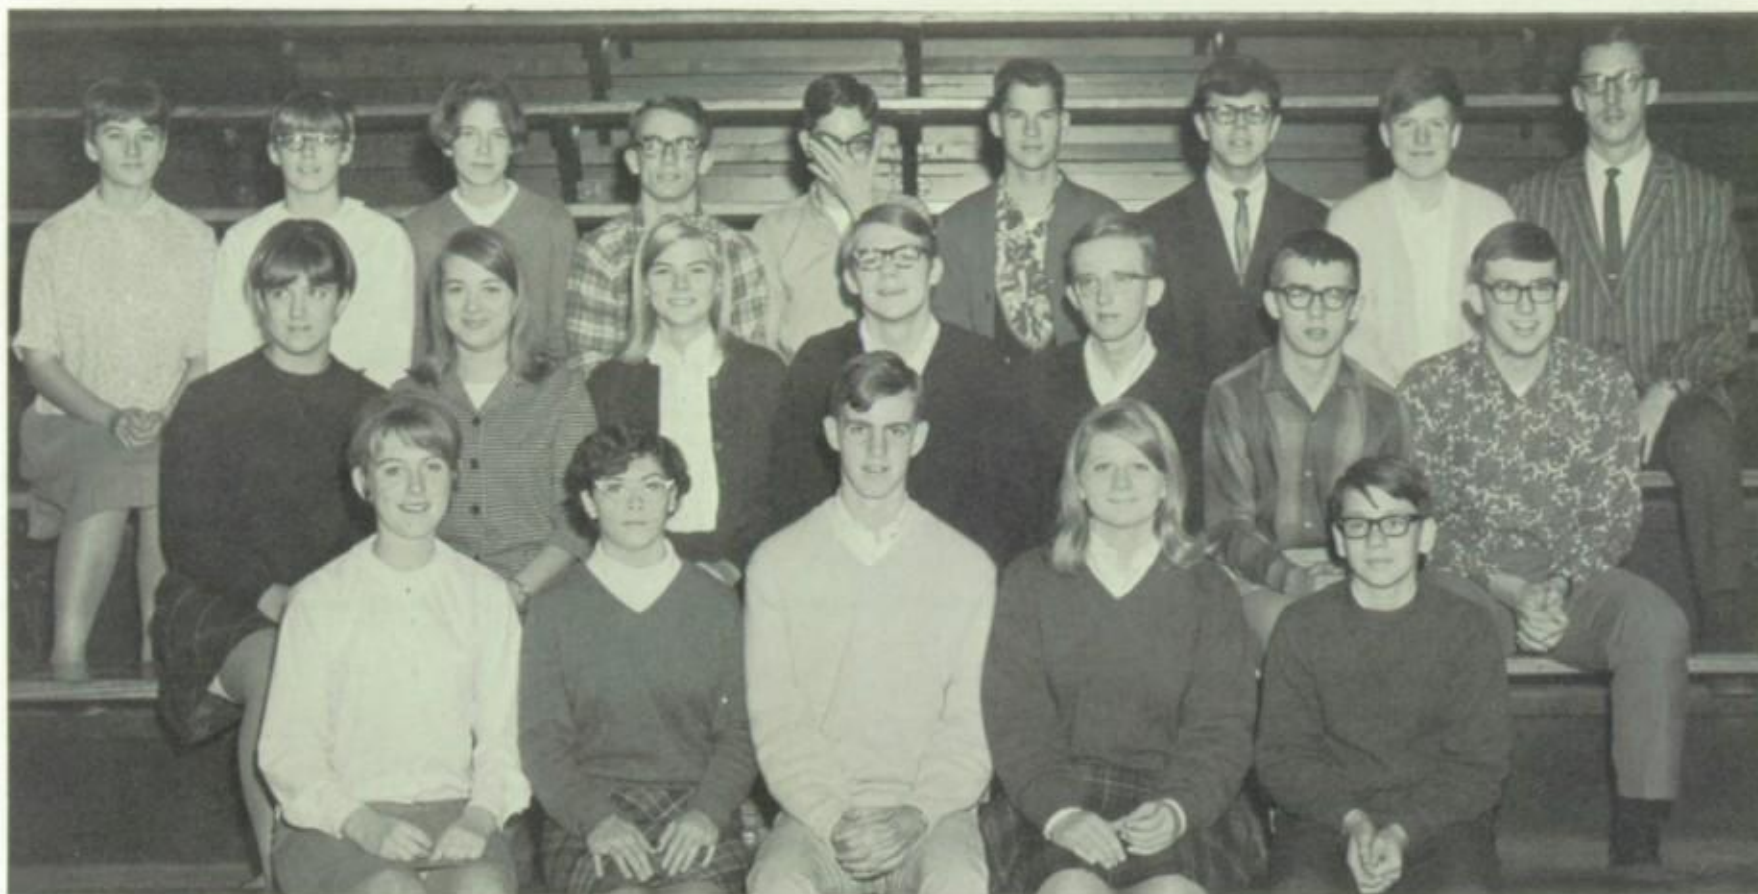

Holding interviews is just one of a reporter's jobs. Here Don Thompson talks with Mr. Bell, a student teacher in government.

Orators Gain Experience Through Speech Club

President Bill Tucker gestures to emphasize a point for the negative in an intra-mural debate. Linda Johnson, Laura Gilliland and Lynn Cullings prepare rebuttals.

Crawfordsville High School's speech team is a dedicated group active in intra- and intermural speaking. Speech events covered by this year's team were humorous, dramatic, and oratorical interpretation, debate and discussion, extemporaneous speaking, poetry reading, radio announcing, and perhaps most familiar to CHS students was original oratory, of which we get a sampling in the Anna Willson Oratorical Contest.

The sponsor was Mr. Nelson who prodded and gave support to the various members. CHS was well represented in several contests. One good reason for participation was the awards presented to the three seniors who had accumulated the most participation points in speech team activities throughout their years in high school, courtesy of the Psi Iota XI Sorority of Crawfordsville.

Tri-M Provides Leadership for Music Students

Tri-M, also known as Modern Music Masters, was the honorary organization in music at CHS, which was sponsored by Mr. Johns and Mr. Magner, the heads of the music department.

Membership in MMM is based on several factors: at least a "B" average in grade subjects and music; service to class and school; excellent character; and participation either as a soloist or as a group member in contests.

The aims and purposes of this national music honorary are to foster greater and continued interest in contests and performances, to encourage better listening habits, and to be of greater service to the community by use of one's musical abilities.

Crawfordsville is Chapter 552 of the over 1800 chapters in the U.S. This year fifteen new members were inducted. As part of its activity plans, Tri-M attended a special concert at Clowes Hall at Butler University in Indianapolis.

French Culture Thrives in "Le Cercle Français"

Le Cercle Francais was again a very active organization in 1967 under the supervision of its sponsor, Miss Marilyn Armstrong.

Programs throughout the year were planned in order to further knowledge of the French people, their customs, and their way of life. One well-remembered speaker was Francis De Moredon from Bordeaux, France. Student speakers, professors from Wabash, slides, skits, word games, and songs rounded out the agenda.

Beginning to become an annual affair was the club's caroling party at Christmas, when they visited the various nursing homes in Crawfordsville. As their work project the club held a bake sale. The year came to an enjoyable close as members held a banquet featuring real French cuisine at the home of "le president."

"All Roads Lead to Rome" Via Latin Club

Many students of Crawfordsville High School found further interest in the ancient Roman civilization and language in Latin Club. Led by consul primus, Tom Runge, the club had a successful year.

Meetings were planned to further members knowledge of Rome. Slides and speakers also supplemented the programs.

Besides sponsoring a mixer, the club held a bake sale on November 4 and a car wash in the spring to boost the treasury. An annual feature of the club was its "slave" sale which provided fun for the master and groans and tardy slips for the slave. A banquet celebrating the Roman Saturnalia was held in the spring and was a typical Roman-style meal. One important service of Latin Club was to provide a scholarship for a senior planning to major in Latin in college.

Would you believe brownies for the bake sale? Consul primus Tom Runge appears skeptical of the product as consul secundus Patti Ebenholtz, scribe Jo McClamroch, and quaestor Jan Shull agree.

Diligent Officers Reactivate Spanish Club

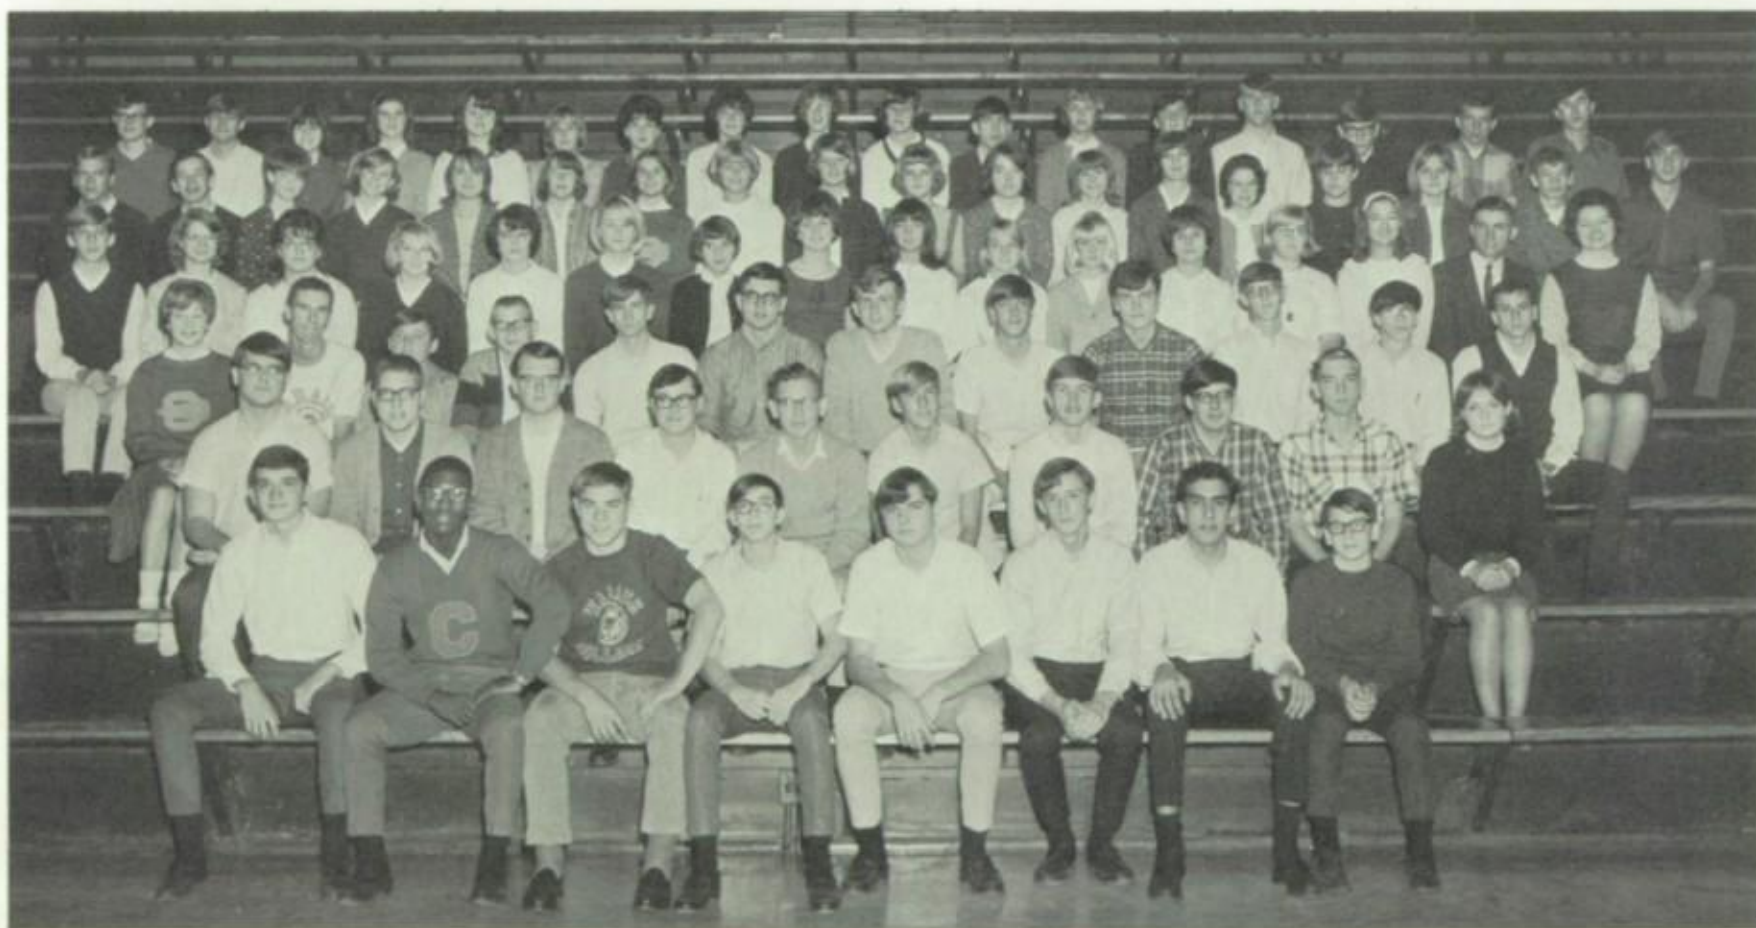

Foreign exchange student, Jorge Charad, from Santiago, Chile, answers a question on Chilean government.

The Spanish Club was reactivated this year with approximately eighty Spanish enthusiasts making up the membership. Mrs. Kass was sponsor, while Lynn Mercer served as president. Her officers were Trish Vance, vice president; Vickie Gibbs, secretary; Chuck Miller, treasurer; and Dan Wilbur, sergeant-at-arms.

The club had many interesting meetings this year. CHS's own foreign exchange student, Jorge Charad who came to us from Santiago, Chile, gave several talks on the Latin American countries, their people and their customs. Slides also provided additional information.

Spanish Club was very active socially. Although they had no work projects they were able to contribute to the AFS fund. A real Spanish fiesta, complete with pinata, was enjoyed by members at the Christmas party, while the annual banquet was held in the spring.

One of the first functions of this year's FTA, or Future Teachers of America, was to attend the Area Three Workshop at Waynetown High School. This was the stepping stone for the state convention in December where members participated in discussion groups.

To provide extra money for the treasury, FTA held a mixer. They also gave a tea for all CHS teachers and sponsored a convocation.

Several speakers from the field of education and movies were planned for the meetings.

As in past years, awards were given on underclass and senior honor days. A patch was awarded to the outstanding senior, while the most deserving senior was granted a $50 scholarship.

"Age before beauty" says vice president Steve Frees as Joyce Fine, treasurer; Becky Leaverton, secretary; and Lana Sexton, president, leave for the district convention.

Renamed last year as Health Careers Club, this organization was open to all students in the tenth through twelfth grades who were deeply interested in the medical profession. The club's purpose was to stimulate interest in medicine and possibly make medicine their career.

President Sue Schenck led the club this year in numerous activities. In order to increase their treasury, the members held a mixer after the Central Catholic football game. For their work project they sold fruit cakes at Christmas time.

At meetings, Mrs. Mary Smith, Crawfordsville High School's nurse, served as the sponsor. She also accompanied the members on their tour through the I.U. Medical Center in Indianapolis.

Several girls did volunteer work in the nursing homes as Bluettes.

An outstanding senior club member received the annual award of scholarship.

Future Homemakers Inspires Young Domestics

Reading the citation for our selection as an honor chapter are the officers and Mrs. Jones, sponsor of FHA.

Having as its goal, "Learning to live better today in order that our lives and those of our families may be better," Crawfordsville High School's chapter of the Future Homemakers of America was an active group. Under the guidance of Mrs. Jones, the girls participated in many projects.

One of their first functions was a beautiful initiation service for all members. As the year progressed they joined chapters all over America to celebrate FHA's twenty-first national birthday. They were selected as an honor chapter from throughout all those in the country.

In addition to many interesting programs and field trips, they were in charge of the Thanksgiving convocation.

This year's officers were Margaret Detchon, president; Debbie Clifton, vice president; Glenda Bartley, secretary; Lynda Fowler, treasurer; Linda Elless, historian; Jane Sutherlin, parliamentarian; Virginia Powers, editor; and Becky Gravitt, song leader.

GAA Offers Athletic Activities to Vibrant Girls

Crawfordsville High School's chapter of the Girls' Athletic Association was sponsored by Miss Davidson, the girls' physical education instructor. Girls have proved their interest in athletics, and GAA's purpose has been to channel this interest into active participation.

Our own GAA was a very active group. The girls took part in volleyball, softball, deck tennis, bowling, and even attempted pocket billiards. One major highlight was basketball. The girls formed a team and played other teams from Cloverdale, Darlington, Southport, and Speedway.

This year a spring banquet was held and awards were presented. Each year an outstanding junior is honored, and last year's was Jerrie Perkins. In addition, the deserving girls were given monograms, letters, and plaques.

Cheryl Poore was president of GAA this year. Assisting her were Anne West, vice-president; Vicki Hesler, secretary; Sally Strawn, treasurer; and Charlene Crane, reporter.

"I've got it!" Basketball is just one area in which GAA participates.

Up-N-Atom was established in Crawfordsville High School over 15 years ago for students interested in science and the various fields open to them. It has encouraged all students in science classes to become members, but the club was predominantly male. With Mr. Smith as sponsor, president Jim Carter led Up-N-Atom through an interesting and informative club year. Jim's other officers were Pete Burks, Chuck Ginger, and Bob Milam as vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

A science fair was held again this year and several of the better projects went on to place in the regional fair at Terre Haute.

Meetings included different student speakers reporting on projects, as well as entertaining professors of science from Wabash. Occasionally, films were shown from the Bell, NASA, and General Motors Science Series. In addition, the club toured science laboratories at Wabash College.

Do you like to sketch, paint, or do any number of artistic activities? Then perhaps you were a member of Palettiers, the school's art club, which was sponsored by Mr. Kauffman.

One activity which is becoming an annual affair is the semi-formal dance sponsored by the club. The members fully decorated the auditorium to suit the theme of the dance.

The work of several Palettiers also graced our display case outside the science rooms during the year. Another area where the students participated was the all-school art exhibit held each spring where ribbons were given.

But Palettiers was not all work. Field trips, films, and lectures proved interesting and profitable for everyone.

The club was led in its activities by Jon Jones, serving as president. His officers included Debbie Holt, vice president; Janet Delano, secretary; and Terri Fyffe, treasurer.

Drama Takes an Intellectual Turn at CHS

The Athenian Theater has been proud of its presentations over the years and "Wildcat" proved to be no exception. It was Mr. David Guthrie's last production at CHS. "Wildcat" is the story of two dissimilar sisters, one known as Wildcat (Cathie Caster), who tried to compete equally in a man's world. She meets her match in Joe Dynamite (John Peacock) of Centavo City. Their troubles and end result of a "gusher" proved riotous fun. Color, costumes, dancing, music—all of these were thrown together to produce a musical to be remembered at CHS.

After combining the Junior-Senior play for two years, they were split into two separate productions this year. Under the direction of Mrs. Loudenback and Mrs. Cunningham, the junior play was presented on December 1. There were three one-act plays: "Sunday Costs Five Pesos," "The Long Christmas Dinner," and "The Hitchhiker." The senior play was presented later in the spring. Techniques of refined drama have become a tradition at CHS.

Showing her disdain at Fidel's (Jodi Smith) advances, Berta (Patti Ebenholtz) provides the basis for fun in the junior class play "Sunday Costs Five Pesos."

"Wildy" (Cathie Caster) hauls intoxicated Joe Dynamite (Johnny Peacock) out of jail as the corrupt sheriff (John Tolley) approves.

CHS Marching and Concert Band

Band officers Debbie Schenck, secretary; Todd Fisher, sergeant-at-arms; Don Schenck, president; and Charlis Partner, vice president, admire the band's new uniforms.

All seniors can graduate this year with fond memories of a rousing "Onward C'ville" at our home football and basketball games. And how many times has the pep band added that little extra sparkle and life to our pep sessions?

The high-stepping Athenian band was very busy this year. Many hours of practice went into the snappy routines at half-time football shows. Still more hours were needed in preparation for the Homecoming and Christmas parades. Band director, Mr. Johns, kept the band on their toes with numbers ranging from "The Batman Theme" to "Adeste Fideles."

However, band members did not go unrewarded for their extra time and talent. Several individuals were given the opportunity to shine at solo and ensemble contests held at DePauw University. Many went on to place in the state contests, also. Last summer the band as a unit participated in the High School Band Day at the Indiana State Fair. In October, our band was one of ten bands in Central Indiana to be invited to DePauw. They participated in a pre-game and half-time band show.

The band was always present at civic functions to add sparkle to home town activities.

as Choral Groups Rehearse for Performances

Lovely gold brocade formals for the girls and bronze jackets for the boys could only be the attire for the CHS choir. At the convocations, concerts, and contests the choir's dress was a distinctive asset to our school. Yet, as they say, "Looks aren't everything." Our choir was laden with talent and proved this many times.

Under the direction of Mr. Rex Magner, the choir had a successful year in all areas of performance. Officers were elected to help select the music for presentation.

CHS was well represented in the solo and ensemble contest held at DePauw and the state meet at Butler. Various members also formed smaller groups within the choir. The Atheniettes, composed of all senior girls, provided a pretty and talented act. Several gifted boys and girls worked together in the Madrigals and sang at various events.

This year's office, library, and counselor assistants were very busy performing their various duties. These students, and those in audio-visual aids, gave up study halls and homerooms to help. Their jobs were often time-consuming, but were necessary tasks so that all departments could be run more smoothly and efficiently.

Those who assisted in the office operated the switchboard, picked up absence slips, and delivered the dreaded "orange slips" to students.

Counselors' assistants helped Mrs. Poole to organize the absentee slips. They also ran errands for the counselors, aided in filing the college catalogs, and were even called upon to do some typing.

In the library, the volunteer students were responsible for checking out, stamping, and re-shelving the books and magazines. The audio-visual aids assisted Mr. Payne in operating film and slide projectors, and setting up sound systems for convocations.

The Seniors' first place float brightens rainy day in Homecoming parade.

With Queen Becky and a First Place Float

Becky; senior attendant, Dale Deckard; and sophomore attendant, Jan Shull.

Who could forget "Homecoming Day, 1966?" That afternoon we walked uptown for the parade in a drenching downpour. But the rain failed to dampen Athenian spirits as we cheered the floats and our team. That night spirit was high throughout the game and halftime ceremonies. Although we lost to the Lebanon Tigers, 26-14, we Athenians were proud of our team and their performance.

During the game's half-time program, our 1966 Homecoming queen, Becky McCreary, was crowned. Her court consisted of one representative from the sophomore class, Jan Shull; one from the junior class, Patti Ebenholtz; and two attendants from the senior class, Lynn Mercer and Dale Deckard.

The winning float this year was the senior's creation, "The Tiger Sleeps Tonight," which was built in the closely-guarded Armory. The juniors and sophomores also came up with excellent competition in the form of their second- and third-place winners, respectively.

Football, parties, parades, and pep sessions—these were just a few of the ingredients which made our Homecoming a memorable one.

A glowing smile brightens the face of our beautiful queen, Becky McCreary, despite the damp weather.

On his way to the goal line is CHS's No. 32, Jeff Dawson, as he attempts to evade his opponent from Lebanon.

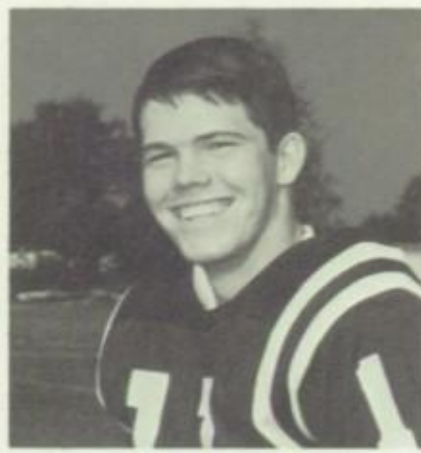

In 1967 the Athenians continued their winning ways in football. It was the ninth straight winning season, the eighth under Coach Knecht. A key to the success of the team was the return of 18 lettermen. The Jeff game began the season with the Athenians barely losing 17-13 to the second-ranked team in the state. Following this, the gridmen rolled over their next opponents before meeting defeat.

Potentially, the offense was one of the best ever at CHS. Complementing it was the defense, an experienced, hard-working unit. The team was seriously hampered by the loss of many players through injuries. At one time eight of the starting eleven were out because of them. Fullback Tom Burns had been much depended upon until he unfortunately broke his leg in the first half against Jeff. Ted Lynch, a Junior All-State halfback, and Rick Norvell were also out for some time. Leading the team was Randy Frederick, an experienced signal-caller. Pete Burks was voted the team's MVP. In the individual highlight of the season, captain John Mitchell, who led in tackles, was named to the All-State Team as guard.

Coach Haslam got his players into good shape and the results showed as the Athenians rolled over their first six opponents for the best start in over two years. In this streak the team accomplished a long-time desire of CHS in beating archrivals Lebanon and Greencastle.

Seven talented lettermen with valuable experience to lead the team returned. Larry Grimes, Joe Pierce, Kelly Cochrane, and Randy Frederick contributed double-figure scoring throughout the season. Bob Hodges usually rounded out the starting five. Roger Elledge and Jim Zach provided much of the dependable bench strength the Athenians had.

The Athenians' success centered around team balance and use of potential. Complementing a good offense was a reliable man-to-man defense. Even with the starting five all over six feet, the players often played taller teams but continued to come out on the best end in rebounding. Athenian aggressiveness and determination often showed up in their second and third efforts to fight for the ball.

Mercer, Rick Norvell, Alan Fulford, John Farrow, Ted DeVore, Manager Greg Bell.

The 1967 wrestling team was one of the very best ever to come from CHS. Under Coach Avery, the grapplers compiled a sterling record and got a second in their own invitational. The outstanding teams CHS has had in the recent past made this winter sport come on much stronger in popularity.

Seniors composed the strength of the team. Of the ten returning lettermen, only one was an underclassman. In this highly individualized sport, a few team members were more outstanding. Among these were Gravens at 95 pounds, Fulford at 127, Peterman at 138, Robertson (team captain) at 165, and Smith wrestling heavyweight.

With such a team as this, the wrestlers stood a good chance of winning the sectional and going further on in the state tournament.

Gary Robertson attempts to put a reverse hold on Dave Peterman during an intra-mural practice session.

The 1967 Athenian cross-country team was the strongest team yet found at CHS in its six years of existence here. Directed by Coach Dorwin Dick the team was paced by three returning senior lettermen and a fine crop of underclassmen. The cross-country team's two fastest runners in history of the sport at CHS, Roger Elledge and Tom Hall, both broke the home course record. Hall set the pace with a speed of 10:44 on a two-mile run over the terrain.

Cindermen Hand West Side First Loss Since '59

CHS compiled a fine record in track for the 1966 season. The spring sport was helped by the return of talented lettermen. Highlights of the season came with the Athenians finishing first at both the Frankfort and Attica relays. In addition, Roger Elledge set a new mark in the two-mile run in the time of 10:51 while Jim Krout set a new pole vault record soaring to 12'9".

The 1966 school year proved a big one for CHS's baseball team under the direction of Jim Calvin. The Athenian batmen had their best season in many years. They compiled a record of 10-5, winning their last seven games in a row, against a rugged schedule.

The team combined excellent fielding with a potent offense, finishing with a .309 average. Joe Pierce and Dave Kitts were voted co-MVP's.

With most of the previous year's team lost through graduation, the 1966 squad consisted primarily of senior lettermen. A couple of underclassmen competed successfully for the other opening spots on the team.

John Peacock and Steve Cooper played one and two on the team while Jerry Walters compiled the lowest average for the season.

Tennis Gains Popularity in Spring Sports

The tennis team of 1966 was in the rebuilding stage, with only a few upper classmen on the team. Jim Carter played the top position for the Athenians and was the sole returning letterman.

Being mostly a young team, the Athenian racketmen gained valuable experience by facing on a very rugged schedule some of the best teams in the state.

CHS Cheerleaders Spark School Spirit

Varsity cheerleaders Jacci Vaught, Donna Fitzwater, Jeanne Rusk, and Robin Bell proved they were ready for victory.

Vivacious B-teamers Laurie Eggers, Carol Norvell, Tricia Wagaman, and Sara Edwards boosted the reserve squads to successful seasons.

At one time or another every girl has imagined herself out there on the gym floor leading the whole student body in yells. A cheerleader's purpose is to stimulate, then keep alive, that intangible thing we name "school spirit." She has to be vivacious, friendly, and constantly using her lung power. A lot of outside time was spent by cheerleaders to think up new yells and accompanying motions.

This year's varsity and B-team cheerleaders worked very hard to boost spirit. The varsity cheerleaders were elected in the 1965-1966 school year to serve for the 1966-1967 school year. They selected Jeanne Rusk as their captain. The B-team cheerleaders were chosen by the sophomores in October and reigned over the B-team's football and basketball games. All eight girls attended the National Cheerleading Institute at Ben Davis High School in November, accompanied by their sponsors, Miss Davidson and Miss West. From this institute they gathered many new ideas for skits and yells to keep our school spirit on top.

"When one door is shut, another opens."
Cervantes (1547-1616)

Another yearbook off to the presses for completion and the staff can breathe a sigh of relief. But this couldn't have been accomplished without the assistance of our classmates, the administration, and professional yearbook personnel.

The outgoing Athenian staff extends hearty thanks to the Newsfoto Publishing Company, Mr. Gil Hutton and assistants of the Photo Art Commercial Studio, Mr. George Dawson, and the Crawfordsville "Journal & Review," for their work in making this yearbook one we will remember in years to come.

We also wish to thank Mr. Dick Kennard and the advisor-in-residence, Mrs. Florence Servies, in guiding the staff's preparation of the 1967 Athenian.
